

Most earned value management tools on the market today are designed to be flexible, but tool flexibility can result in its actual implementation being non-compliant with the ANSI/EIA-748 EVMS standard. Charter Performance works with their clients to configure and implement commercially available tools such as Deltek's Cobra or MPM products. We also develop interfaces between the EVMS tool and the company's accounting system and project management/scheduling tools to ensure that their application is compliant with the EVMS standard.
